

- Dallas should share the news of this success story more widely so that others might follow their practices.
- The district should avoid simply mass producing new schools without making the needed investments in
-

